

I find XM traffic and weather information a very valuable service because I'm a travelling professional. With commercial radio it is almost impossible to find local weather and traffic information on the local radio channels. I'm not aware of the stations or schedules when and where this information is given. With XM, I know exactly where and when to find it. For local radio, you need to know local information. For a travelling professional, that is almost impossible to know!